BC is bear country!

Keeping safe while hiking in bear country is simple:

There are literally thousands of human-bear encounters every year in BC, and these encounters normally end without incident. It is important however, that you know how to behave properly when hiking or recreating in bear country:

Hike with others, talk or sing to let bears know of your presence.
If you have a dog with you - keep it leashed.
Carry bear spray and know how to use it.
Never approach or feed a bear.
Never run from a bear.
Remember "The best bear encounter is the one you avoid."
