Attention

The following materials on page 7 through 9, are two documents that are being implemented by Huu-ay-aht First Nations Government to help guide a healthy and safe environment.

Huu-ay-aht First Nations Guiding Principles

These principles guide us in everything we do, how we work together and with others, and how we build a healthy and safe work environment for all.

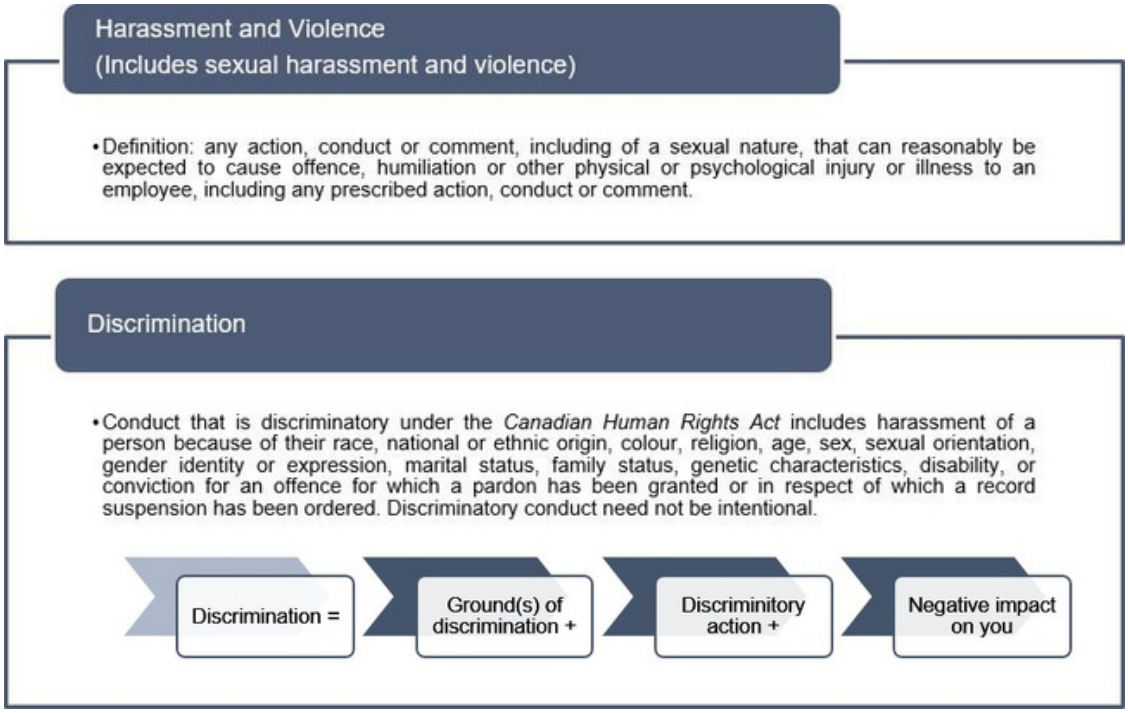

Everyone plays a role in creating a healthy & safe work environment.

Huu-ay-aht Guiding Principles are demonstrated in our workplace and in our performance by:

ʔiisaak- Respect	ʔuuʔałuk – Taking Care of	Hišuk ma c̓áwak – Everything is one
Greater Respect. Personal and collective respect for the community and its people, traditional knowledge, the natural world, the metaphysical world and other peoples and communities. Leaders exemplify ethical practices, professionalism, and personal integrity. They create respectful and trusting work environments where sound advice is valued. They encourage the expression of diverse opinions and perspectives while fostering collegiality. Leaders are self-aware and seek out opportunities for personal growth. Demonstrate through: • Holds self and the organization to the highest ethical and professional standards. • Models' commitment to citizen-focused service and the public interest • Implements practices to advance an inclusive, healthy organization, respectful of the diversity of people and their skills and free from harassment and discrimination. • Exemplifies impartial and non-partisan decision-making. • Engages in self-reflection and acts upon insights.	Taking Care Of. In this context, this is about taking care of present and future generations and the resources provided by the land, water, and the natural world. Leaders are deliberate and resourceful about seeking the widest possible spectrum of perspectives. They demonstrate openness and flexibility to forge consensus and improve outcomes. They bring a whole-of-government perspective to their interactions. In negotiating solutions, they are open to alternatives and skillful at managing expectations. Leaders share recognition with their teams and partners. Demonstrate through: • Builds and nurtures effective collaborative networks and relationships with communities, citizens, colleagues, and stakeholders. • Engages others to support horizontal initiatives. • Actively listens to understand the impact of issues and perspectives of others. • Implements strategies that enhance collaboration. • Acknowledges the contribution of others in achieving objectives.	Everything is One. A notion of the interconnected, interdependent, and reciprocal relationship between the people, the land, and the wider world(s) in a physical, spiritual and social sense. Leaders define the future and chart a path forward. They are adept at understanding and communicating context, factoring in the economic, social, and cultural environment. Intellectually agile, they leverage their deep and broad knowledge, build on diverse ideas and perspectives, and create consensus around compelling visions. Leaders balance the First Nations' and Western Society's views to improve outcomes for Huu-ay-aht. Demonstrate through: • Bringing forward both sides to create a strong vision for everyone. • Informs decisions through an understanding of the whole environment. • Engages others to translate implementation strategies into concrete objectives. • Communicates with clarity and conviction. • Implements strategies that respond to organizational priorities that improve outcomes for Huu-ay-aht.
